Woodland, lakes, heath

In Brief

This walk is a huge adventure which has become a classic, beautiful and exhilarating, combining spectacular woodland, hidden lakes and green meadows. In late spring, the woods adjoining your route will be decked almost all the way by bluebells.

There is just one patch of nettles but in summer the undergrowth may make bare legs uncomfortable. There is some mud in the last section after Leonardslee, so boots are important. The walk is fine for a fit dog as the stiles generally have a gap. A lead is needed because of the sheep pastures

The walk starts at Furnace Pond near Slaugham, West Sussex, nearest postcode RH17 6AE, grid ref TQ 249 281. The lake is just west of Slaugham. Before you park, it is worth stopping briefly in Slaugham (see history below). For a detailed map, and a bus route, see at the end of this text (→ Getting There).

The Walk

Slaugham (pronounced "Slaffham") is a small village around an attractive green. The Norman Church has a 13th century tower with a Victorian clock set in its north side. Nearby is the ruin of Slaugham Place, the former home of Sir Walter Covert, designed by John Thorpe and built by 1579, but pulled down some 200 years later. The lake is one of the sources of the River Ouse.

Leg 1: Furnace Pond to Newstead Farm 4 km=2½ miles

- 1 With the lake on your left, follow the road Coos Lane past a large house on the left, Lower Ashfold, till, 100m after Inholms Cottage, take a footpath at a fingerpost forking off left. The footpath leads through a swing gate into a field. Cross it diagonally keeping the same direction, aiming for a corner of the wood ahead. At the corner of the wood, the official path continues along the right-hand edge of the field beside the wood. (However, it is pleasant to take a parallel path through the wood. After 250m through rhododendrons, 20m before the path bends right, go left down a bank, over a stream and straight up to the brow of a hill towards a 2-way fingerpost and a large house.) The official footpath turns left at the field corner and then regains direction over the brow of the hill at a 2-way fingerpost. Go through a small wooden gate, with a large house, Ashfold Farm House, on your left, and cross a stile beside a gate. Now go over a meadow and finally through a swing gate just to the right of some copper beeches to reach a main road (the B2110 Horsham Road). Turn left on the road.

Notice that you have been walking part of the High Weald Landscape Trail. The HWLT is a 140 km=90 mile walking route between Horsham and Rye on the East Sussex coast passing through the High Weald Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. It passes through some spectacular scenery and lovely towns such as Tenterden, Benenden and Rolvenden (see the walk "The Dens of Kent" in this series).

- 2 After about 300m, you pass the welcome sign for Plummers Plain and reach a forest by a wide track called Cartersledge Lane. Turn right here, still following the HWLT. Follow this quiet forest lane, passing the large Cartersledge Pond on your right [Aug 2020: care! bridge repairs in progress], until you pass a bungalow on the left. Ignore a footpath sign left, passing a large field on the right as the track enters woodland. On your left is a dusty driveway to a house. About 30m after it, nearly 1 km since you turned off the main road, take a footpath right over a stile (or through a metal gate) into a charming narrow meadow. Your path keeps to the right at first and gradually drifts to the left side. Avoid a small wooden gate about half way along and follow the meadow to its far end. Here, the footpath leaves the meadow left over a stile, crosses a stream by a bridge in a strip of woodland and leads up to a field. Do not cross the stile on the left leading into the field but instead keep right here on a woodland path, later ignoring a path on the right over a small bridge, and eventually entering the meadow via another stile. (This route cuts out two stiles on the official path.) If you are walking in late spring, you will see an abundance of bluebells. They will be a constant enchanting feature of this walk. Cross the meadow diagonally passing close to a pylon and crossing a low fence. Sometimes you may meet a quiet herd of Friesians, easy to bypass if you need to. Keep straight on in the direction of farm buildings to reach a chalky track leading to a metal gate into Newstead Farm (the only farmyard you pass on this walk.)

Leg 2: Newstead Farm to the Stew Pond 5 km=3 miles

- 3 At the farm keep ahead over a bridgeway, via a metal gate on each side, and follow a footpath straight ahead downhill. This path goes down the right-hand side of a field to a small metal gate and crosses a stream by a wooden bridge. Immediately after the bridge, turn right on a path that starts parallel to the stream and quickly veers away from it uphill. [2014: a fallen birch obscures this path: don't miss it!] The path runs for 300m through attractive woodland, and continues over a stile on an enclosed, rather overgrown, path alongside another field to Grouse Road.
- 4 Turn left on this quiet lane. After about 250m, just after the entrance to Elenge Plat, take a footpath right through a small metal gate. The footpath runs along the right hand side of a meadow, goes through a large metal gate, becomes a wide enclosed path and crosses a tarmac drive by a fingerpost. Keep ahead on a brick-lined path. Avoid a driveway leading into Spring Farm on the right and continue on a much narrower path. 100m further, ignore a signposted right turn. After about ½ km through lovely woods [2014: ducking under a fallen tree] you cross a merry stream by a bridge with a rail, between bars, into a meadow of scattered gorse. At the other side of the gorsy meadow, under oaks, you arrive at a 3-way fingerpost. Take the left fork over a stile and along the right-hand side of a meadow in Combe Bottom.
- 5 The path crosses another stile by a house on the right with a haha onto a narrow enclosed path ending in a tiny wooden bridge where it maintains direction on a wide grassy path. Ignore another right turn to go ahead through a swing-gate by a metal gate. Eventually you come to a wide forestry track. Turn sharp left on it. (If you are looking at Map 134, note that the left-turn short cut does not exist.)
- 6 In 100m take a footpath right over a 2-plank bridge, up some steps. You are now truly entering St Leonards Forest and families and other walkers will probably become evident. The footpath leads upwards and levels out on the expansive heath of Greenbroom Hill, crossing a forestry track (see the other walk "St Leonards Forest: shorter walks"). You are now back on the High Weald Landscape Trail. Follow the trail and footpath signs, always straight on, ignoring all paths leading off, going over a diagonal crossing path and later joining a wide sandy track coming down from the left. Ignore a left turn at a 3-way fingerpost and continue uphill. Soon there is a field on the left and the path is gradually joined from the right by a stony path. Just after an unmapped pond on the left, the path goes through a modern kissing gate, crosses a wider track and continues along a grassy enclosed path with gorse, sparse woodland, then a field on the left. It eventually reaches a T-junction at a wide track via an unneeded stile beside an old metal gate beside the rather gloomy Stew Pond which can be glimpsed on your right. Your route is left at the T-junction on the straight wide track.

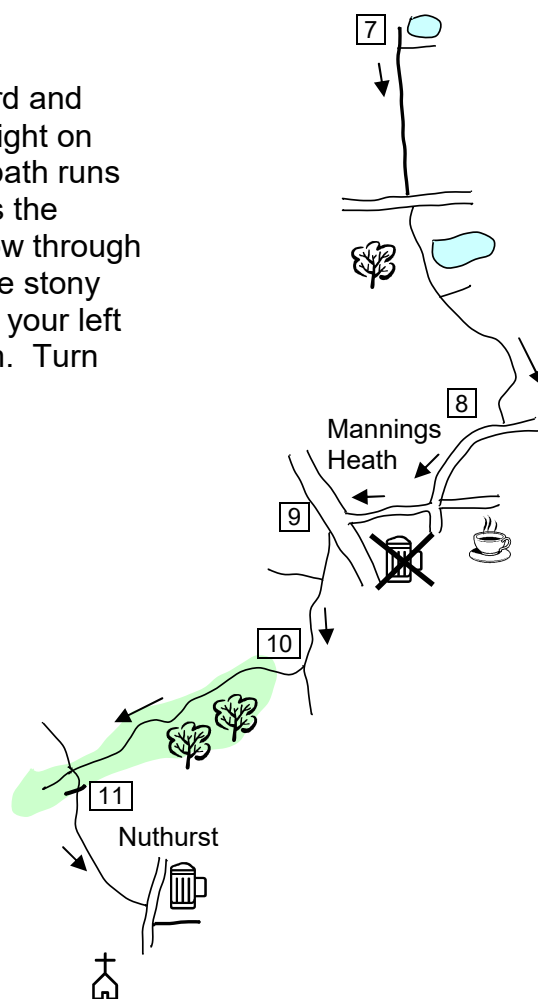

Leg 3: Stew Pond to Nuthurst 6½ km=4 miles

7 Follow the track for 850m, eventually passing a yard and reaching a road. Cross the road and continue straight on past a barrier on a much narrower footpath. This path runs for 400m between fields and woodland and passes the Roosthole Pond on the left. As you enter a meadow through a modern kissing gate, avoid a stile on the left. The stony path curves right around a field with a crop field on your left and reaches a road at a kissing gate near a stream. Turn right on the road.

8 The road leads upwards into Mannings Heath and eventually reaches a signposted crossroads. In keeping with the immaculate nature of this small community, the village store, once classy deli next to a billiard-table perfect patch of grass, has now closed unfortunately. (There is a Mace grocery in the filling station shortly though.) Turn right at the crossroads down Pound Lane (signposted Horsham) and eventually reach the A281 main road by the Dun Horse. Sadly closed. This friendly always-open Fullers pub is also a B&B. Several guest ales are served direct from the cask and there is a big choice of tapas and ampler dishes. Cross the road, a fraction left, to a narrow footpath opposite.

9 100m after joining the footpath, ignore a signposted footpath right and continue through trees. The path goes through a wooden swing-gate, over a footbridge, later through a modern metal gate, over another stile, along the right-hand side of a meadow and over two stiles close together at a signposted junction. Here, turn right on a bridleway, immediately crossing a wooden bridge, and continue ahead on a wide path.

10 The bridleway runs through deciduous forest and then the pine forests of Bushy Copse and Finche's Wood with fine views left across the valley. Where the path intersects a broad crossing track, go straight across. In another 600m you pass Finches Wood Cottage. In 100m, at a four-way signed junction, take a footpath left.

- 11 Follow the footpath down through pasture as it goes over a crossing track, through woodland, down by a new fence beside a meadow on your left and through a wooden swing gate into a large flowery meadow. It descends the right-hand side, through a large metal gate, and continues down similarly and through a new wooden swing gate. The path now veers diagonally left across the meadow following wires towards the distant corner where there is a wooden swing gate into the lane about 30m right of the last electricity pole. Turn left along the lane into Nuthurst and turn right along the road. A charming gem, the Black Horse Inn here is a small, slightly upmarket, free house that holds occasional jazz sessions.

A little further on the right is St Andrew's Church, dating from 1130, and much altered at various times since. The graceful wooden shingled spire replaced the old squat tower in 1857. Inside, the east window is a stunning depiction of St Andrew flanked by a sower and fisherman. The beautiful rood screen, though modern, invokes ages past with its delicate pastels, and depicts eight Sussex saints, including St Leonard. The first window on the right as you enter is the "jigsaw window", the solution to the puzzle having been lost in 1660.

Leg 4: Nuthurst to Leonardslee New Pond 5 km=3½ miles

- 12 Soon, take the tarmac lane left, marked as a bridleway, passing a large space on your left which used to be a garden centre. At a T-junction turn left, take a right fork and follow the bridleway as it curves right through restored farm buildings. Ignore a footpath sign visible on the left leading round a farm shed and instead keep straight ahead on the broad track. In 140m, fork right on a narrower bridleway as indicated by the sign, thus avoiding an isolated cottage. The bridleway passes through the thick Lodgesale Wood, with tall pines, then a mixture of tree species. If the way is muddy or rutted, there are many opportunities to bypass it on a parallel path. After 1 km in the wood, the bridleway wheels right by a cottage and reaches a lane.

- 13 Turn left on the lane for 20m and take another bridleway right. In 180m, avoid the wider path which stops at a gate and instead obey a signpost by forking right. The bridleway passes several unmapped lakes on your right and, about 700m from the fork, runs over a wide bridge, rising steeply. 200m from the bridge, there is a signposted junction with another bridleway coming in from the left where the route curves right. After 130m, ignore a signed footpath right and, 30m later, take the next signposted footpath left uphill. Be careful not to miss this turn! On meeting a pair of cottages, ignore the first footpath that goes sharply right but take the second footpath right, 25m further on, in front of the cottages.

[14] This footpath leads over a pleasant open meadow, over a plank bridge, across the centre of another meadow to the main road at Crabtree. Here you need to cross the road very carefully as the traffic is partly hidden by hedges. The “Crabtree” pub / restaurant, now run by established chef Simon Hope, is a few metres left and offers a really good lunch menu at £18 for three courses. Take the path immediately opposite. [\[2014: some walkers found it too overgrown in summer. You can turn left on the road, past the pub, turn right on Mill Lane for 750m and left on the track mentioned in section 16 below.\]](#)

[15] The footpath will be taking you almost dead straight for roughly 1km. It first crosses a residential road, proceeds over a meadow with houses in view on the left, goes through a patch of woodland and skirts a residents’ car park. It continues ahead between meadows with a wire fence on your right, along the left-hand side of a sheep pasture. It crosses two stiles close together, avoiding a footpath left. It then goes along the left side of the field after which you can cross a stile or use the metal gate, if open. Go over a wide track to a track opposite and, in 10m where the track bends right, leave it to go over another stile. Continue straight across the centre of two meadows until the last meadow ends at a stile onto a wide track by a 4-way fingerpost near an attractive house, Copsedene.

[16] Turn left at the track past the house and follow it as it ascends and curves left. At the top, where it becomes a tarmac road, leave it by turning sharp right on a track and keep straight on for 400m or so. This track takes you through an outstanding area of forest. You reach New Pond which borders Leonardslee Gardens where you have to turn right, passing Furnace Pond, visible through foliage, on your right.

Leonardslee is a country house and the extensive Gardens are rightly celebrated, especially for their rhododendrons and azaleas around the lakes and rock garden. There are also (real) wallabies and a huge dolls’ house (more like a dolls’ palace and village) and a collection of Victorian automobiles. The gardens were recently sold to “an international businessman” and are currently not open to the public.

Leg 5: Leonardslee New Pond to Furnace Pond 5 km=3 miles

[17] The track rises steeply and descends more gently. After crossing a wonderful verdant stream at the valley bottom via a wide bridge, take the bridleway immediately left following the stream. [You may find this section rather muddy in some seasons. \[7-dec-2016: there was a path closure notice affecting this left turn. Duration was only 21 days so you probably won’t be concerned. Fortunately there is a good alternative: Go straight on at this junction, through woodland with a fence / hedge on your right. You come to a gate across the path. Turn left here in the direction of a fingerpost hidden behind bushes on your left. The path soon side-steps right a few meters into the left-hand edge of a cereal field, with a wood on your left and a post and wire fence on your right. Go up the hill and into a wood again, then down the other side of the hill to a three-way fingerpost with an old iron gate on your right. Turn left here. Follow the path until you come to a newly-surfaced gravel track: here you re-join the prescribed route at \(\) below.\]](#) The track runs for 800m through a remarkable, sometimes spectacular, area of forest to pass a lake on your left. About 200m after the lake, ignore a signed footpath right. [()] 15m after that, take a signed footpath left which goes down and along a boardwalk (which only avoids some of the mud) and up a slope. Immediately cross another track diagonally.

- 18 In 60m, at a 3-way signpost, take the footpath right uphill, leading through more forest. After about 200m, at a junction, keep to the signposted route, slightly right, avoiding a grassy path on the left and a track curving away to the left. The path joins a tarmac driveway via a metal gate and comes out to a road by a timbered cottage at Harvey's Farm. Note that you are on the Sussex Ouse Valley Way, a 68km route, opened in 2005, that follows the River Ouse from its source near Lower Beeding in the High Weald to the sea at Seaford Bay (see the walk "Ardingly Lake, Ouse Valley, Borde Hill" in this series).

- 19 Turn right on the road for 120m and then take a bridleway left up a shingly path, now resurfaced for riders. This path levels out and becomes a very pleasant surfaced track leading past woodland and fields. At a house with a tall isolated chimney, it joins a tarmac lane, passes a perfect timbered cottage at Denmans Farm and goes over a stream via a brick bridge. It ends at a major road. Turn right soon to arrive back at the Furnace Pond where the walk began.

Getting there

By car: To get to the Furnace Pond by car, take the M23 and follow the sign for Nymans Garden. This takes you through the village of Handcross. Go past the entrance to the garden and continue on the road to the village of Staplefield. As you enter the village, fork right beside the green in the direction Slaugham, Warninglid. At a crossroads at the far side of the green, turn right on the Slaugham Road. The road goes beneath the A23 road to Slaugham. Continue straight on through this attractive village to a cross-roads with a major road where there is a lake, popular with anglers. There are parking areas beside the road on the right, ahead by the lakeside, and, failing that, straight ahead on the right.

By bus: No. 17 from Brighton or Horsham station to Mannings Heath; no. 89 from Horsham to Mannings Heath. Check the timetables.
